

IsHaunted — The ordinary member

Belongs to a group, holds no named role and no extra grants. Written for a developer joining the project.

Every screenshot shows simulated, seeded data, captured in dark mode while signed in as this user type. Nothing here is a real person, case or investigation. Where a page shows a refusal, that is the designed behaviour for this seat.

This is the most useful seat to test and the easiest to get wrong. An ordinary member belongs to the group but holds no grants, so the permission service returns false on every table. Anything a member is meant to reach that is gated on a grant is broken from here and nowhere else — an owner or administrator would never see it.

A developer changing permissions should check this seat first. The test suite keeps a permanent account for exactly this reason.

How this site decides what you may see

Two things gate every surface, and they are different questions:

Your seat in a group — owner, administrator, member, viewer — answers "may this person do this?". The group's plan answers "does this group pay for this at all?". A member of a group whose plan excludes an area is refused for a completely different reason than a viewer who is not allowed to write, and the site says which.

A refusal is never rendered as "nothing here." An empty list and a server saying no are different facts, and a page that shows the same grey nothing for both teaches people to distrust it. Every list goes through `LoadResult`, which carries loading, empty, refused, session-ended and rate-limited as distinct states — and every one of them has its own words on screen.

This matters when reading this document: where a screenshot shows a refusal, that is the designed behaviour for this seat, not a broken page.
